About Jane Evans

I am a BACP senior accredited counsellor and director of Online Counselling Services & Training. I first began working online, and supporting others to engage remotely with their clients and service users back in 2004. I have been an organising member of OCTIA since its conception 11 years ago and also served a 7-year term with the ACTO executive.

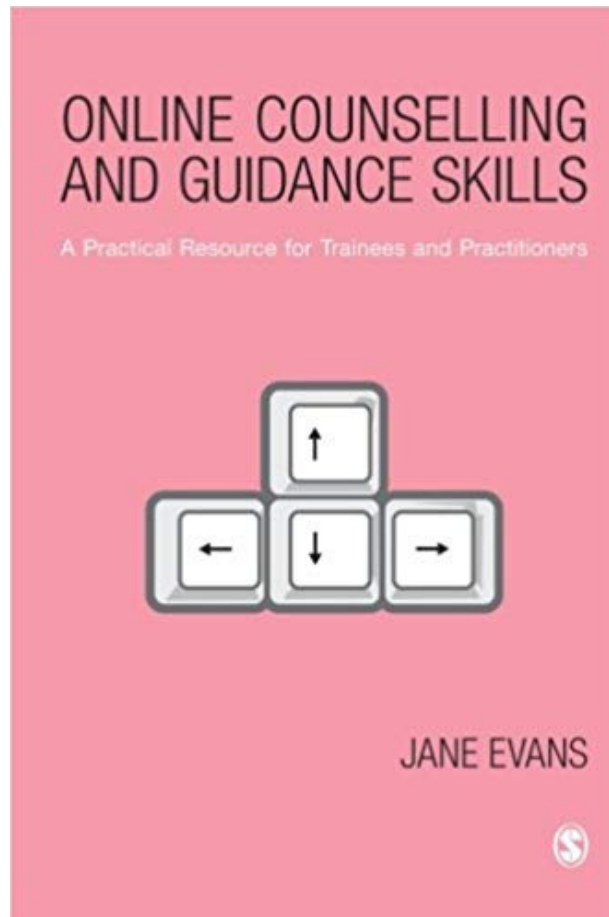

During the last 15 years, my passion for promoting online counselling and online supervision has been predominantly focused around my professional online practice and delivering training programmes for online counselling and supervision.
